Pes 2021 mobile manager guide

Hiring a good manager in PES myClub is important because, unlike other game modes, you can't assign a random formation to your myClub team. The best managers are always very expensive (costing you hundreds of games. If you're looking for the Best Managers in the game, have a look at this page. The list of Managers in PES 2021 is always changing, reflecting real-life events (such as a new manager joining a club, or changing formations mid-season). Also, keep in mind that you won't find every manager available at all times. Konami refreshes the list of available managers to you on a daily basis (every 8 hours, as a general rule), so keep checking the CONTRACT / MANAGERS section. On the last day of each month, the list of available managers is exceptionally refreshed every time you visit the "Hire New Managers" screen - this is usually the best day to grab the manager you have been waiting for! If you would like to use multiple formations, don't forget that you can have more than one manager in-game - you can read my Assistant Coaches section to learn more. Here is my Manager database. You may notice that some managers appear more than once; they may have moved on to other clubs or used different formations throughout the season. I will add more in the upcoming days and make an effort to keep this updated with new managers I come across. Currenty showing 332 managers. Frequently Asked Questions (regarding Managers) What are "Management Skills"? Each player has a different cost, based on his ability. A Black Ball costs more, especially if he has a very high Overall. If the Total Costs of the players in your Squad is higher than your manager's Management Skills, you are advised to switch to cheaper players - you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still increase this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease this value with Management Skills, and you can still choose to use your superstars, but your team's Team Spirit will decrease the spirit will decrease the spirit will be added to spi Boost items.What does "Adaptability" mean?The greater a manager's Adaptability, the higher his initial Familiarity level and the faster that level will grow (maximum is 120%). Familiarity will help in increasing Team Spirit.Familiarity can actually drop as well. If you constantly use a manager as an Assistant Coach, this number will decrease. If he becomes your main manager again, Familiarity will go up once more. You can quickly boost your Familiarity level by using Familiarity Boost items. What does "Support Range", "Defensive Line" and "Compactness" mean? You will see that each manager has a number next to each one of these 3 attributes, which can go from 1 to 10. "Support Range" concerns your manager's Attacking Instructions, while "Defensive Line" and "Compactness" affects the way your team defends. Support RangeAs far as "Support and exploit counter-attacks, since teammates will keep their distance between eachother. Defensive Line to the box, making it harder for the opponent to surprise you on the counter. A high number will keep your players up on the pitch, applying more pressure but staying more vulnerable to quick counter attacks. CompactnessAs for "Compactness", a low number will keep your team closer together and more central in the pitch. The latter is a better option to prevent attacks from the middle. PES Club Manager Guide Best Formations and Tactics with tips and tricks in brief. Pro Evolution Soccer Club Manager (PESCM) is the best manager game for mobile devices. This game belongs to the simulation genre and is one of the most popular Football Management games available in the market to date. This game is created by one of the most famous games developing companies known as KONAMI. They also create games for PC, Xbox, PS, and so on. In this game, you can sign up to run a club and have complete control over the club's finances and player transfers. You must ensure that your club does not go bankrupt, and you must, above all, concentrate on winning trophies for the club. To achieve your goal, your tactics and formation play a vital role in this game. Here I have listed some of the PES Club Manager Best Formation and tactics which will assist you on this amazing club manager journey. Sell the players which you don't use You have to sell the players which you don't use to play him in your squad. You just need to buy players which you are going to play and that will upgrade your squad. You can buy superstar players in training sessions. Train your players in the training session to improve your players' quality. You can get a trainer to upgrade a player's skill. Keep upgrading your facilities. Facilities will unlock various potential improvements for the club and the squad. You just have to build and upgrade facilities. Keep on track of your player's contract. If you will not keep track of the individual player then the player may transfer to another club for free. To find the player who has a contract expiring and sign him a new contract. Preview the player's stamina and energy level before starting the match. Sometimes players are fatigued with regular fixtures of matches or due to individual training sessions. So you have to change that player and keep a good condition player so that your team can perform better in the match. This is the reason you should have good players at your bench as well so that you can sub them when you need to motivate your players and get good performance from that player. Be it real-life football or esports, the role of managers in the team's performance will have an indubitable effect. Some might disagree with this, but at some point or the other, PES gamers will feel that the manager they are using currently is becoming predictable for the opponents (while playing with friends). Such moments call for change in the managerial role. So, if you are trying to change your manager and are thinking about how to play with certain uncommon managers and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager and are thinking about how to play with certain uncommon managers and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager and are thinking about how to play with certain uncommon managers and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager and are thinking about how to play with certain uncommon managers and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager and are thinking about how to play with certain uncommon managers and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager Series, and their interesting tactics, do follow our PES Mobile Manager Series, which starts with the Italian manager Series, which starts with the Itali minded PES players, who love to score via counterattacks. So, let us look into this PES 2021 Manager Guide for E.Reja (Real Name) Nationality- ItalianTeam- AlbaniaAdaptability- 80Team Management skills- 800Formation- 5-3-2Cost- 430(coins)/17200(GP) Formation and tactical analysis of E. Reja Reja uses a 5-3-2 formation with his Albanian National team, as it is given in the game. By default, the playing style is defensive, so it is better to keep only 1 DMF and 2 CMF (*you cannot have AMF in this formation). Reja's 5-3-2 (with CMF and DMF) All the PES managers are given both attacking and defensive tactics to play with. Not all managers can equally play their team well in both the attacking football. Reja's tactics work well in defensive tactics. Also, not all players are good with both defensive tactics of Reja in PES 2021 via this manager guide, according to which, you should play with your players. Although both defensive mode of Reja's tactics, it's recommended that you use defensive mode of Reja's tactics and then, how you should use them in your gameplay. Attacking StyleCounter AttackBuild-upLong PassAttacking ZonesWidePressingAggressive Now, let's further analyse the whereabouts of these tactics. Attacking Style - Counter Attack As you can see here, Torres has 2 options during a counter-attack, 1. A lob pass, 2. A through ball to his CF partner. Giving backpasses, or any other short passes isn't really possible during a counter-attack, because all teammates are either running or very far from you. This is a feature of real-life defensive football. It implies, attacking the opponent, as soon as your team wins the ball's possession from them. After winning the possession, you'll see all of your teammates are running forward. From that point, either of the two things may happen, you score a goal, or give back the possession to the opponent while trying to score one. So, during counterattacks, you never pass backwards, unless you intend to lob-pass over the opponent defence line. Don't try to hold the ball and dribble much or keep possession, it will be against Reja's tactics. Hence, in your team, you'll need CB and DMF with high speed, acceleration and offensive awareness, who will start running towards the opponent half, as soon as the ball possession is won by your team. Also, skills like one-touch passing, Build Up - Long Pass During a counter-attack, your opponents would be out of position, trying to rush back to their goal. Instead of playing short passes, Vieira will play a weighted through ball or a through building up. Many think a building up style is complementary to a particular attacking style. Although it is true to some extent, it is not the truth every time. In this instance, the build-up is through long passes, however, note that long passes don't necessarily mean lofted passes every time. Under Reja, the players tend to spread out themselves in their natural positions and would hardly come to support a teammate, so you have to find a teammate by long passes, either grounded or lofted and low passing) and with skills like one-touch passing, weighted pass, low lofted are to be preferred. Attacking Zones - Wide The advanced RB would either cross the ball towards the two CFs or pass it to the support player who'll lob in the ball. He may also play a wall-pass with that midfielder, to dodge the opponent defender, and then put in the cross. Either way, the attack would come from a wide area. Due to these tactics, you'll notice a tendency of your fullbacks to often move forward on overlapping runs. The tactics are pretty simple to understand. It simply means, your team will use the wings and the flanks to attack. Either cross in a ball, or cut-back and turn to shoot. Since it is a counterattacking formation, the latter would be unlikely, while counterattacking through the flanks is a possibility. Also, you'll notice during a counterattack, one of the 2 CFs would try to go wider, and receive a through ball. So, instead of playing passes through ball, he'll try to play his partner CF in that counterattack. Positioning - Maintain Formation This tactic denotes how your player will change their on-field positions and sometimes replace the positions, and won't come to cover up a void left by any of your players, if they have left their positions, and won't come to cover up a void left by any of your players, if they have left their positions and sometimes replace the positions, and won't come to cover up a void left by any of your players, if they have left their positions and sometimes replace the positions. with your defenders, it would prove costly. Also, not to dribble too much with a single player, as it may leave a space that player was occupying, making your team vulnerable since none of your player has a similar positioning tactic. Defensive Styles - All-out Defense As you can see the all-out defenders, instead of pressing the opponent, are falling back to their positions and focusing more on man-marking and zonal defenders fall back towards their own goal, once possession is lost, and try to guard the goal, instead of pressing the opponent players. Hence, never ever try to press with your defenders or call them to assist for a press, when you are under an attack. Instead, try to push the opponent far towards the flanks, which brings us to our next tactic. Containment Area - Wide Here you can see how the players are maintaining their formation, except the midfielders(1) stay in their positions, besides the 4 defenders A, B, C, D. Fullback E went to attack and is rushing back to his position because no one else will come to fill his space(maintain formation positioning) To contain an opponent is to influence them to move with the ball where you desire, with the application of body strength and defending skills. Under Reja, your players will try to push and contain the opponents towards the flanks, by pressing. Hence, it will be a job for your fullbacks to do. Also, the wider CBs or CMFs may come to your aid, but only to a limit of their playing zones. Remember that the manager follows a rigid formation, so don't try to contain a player to your left flank with the help of your right CB. As it may leave the right CB position empty with no one to cover it. Pressing - Aggressive This is the favourite tactic of many modern managers. However, the mistake most gamers do is to press with their CB. Do not ever press with their CB. Do not ever press with your CB, especially if you have 'maintain formation' positioning. Let your CBs stay back. If necessary, press with two players (CMF/ DMF and a fullback) and contain the opponent to the flanks. This is the reason why 'Build-up' CBs would be the very perfect choice under this manager. Advantages/Reasons to use this formation The compactness of the defence makes it impenetrable through the ground if you stay back with your defenders and don't press your opponents much. The wide range of attack. While playing many competitive games or matchday games, I've noticed that most of the gamers are weak at defending crosses and attacks coming in from wide. Since your tactic would be defensive and your defence would maintain a low backline, it will be easier to defend against long-ball spammers. It is almost impossible to stop the counterattacks made by this formation unless you screw up with the finishing. Conclusion and some important points to remember All PES managers have their unique tactics. Playing short passes and keeping possession to build up an attack under Reja, won't do any favour. To play well with a manager, team spirit may not be favourable to you. For that, you have to choose players who match the manager's tactics and then play more matches, until the spirit is 99. E.Reja in PES 2021 uses a 5-3-2 formation which works best in a defensive mode in the game. The 3 midfielders can be altered between a CMF or DMF. There is no AMF option available. The best combination would be, 2 wider CMF and a DMF in the middle. The LB and RB positions can't be changed to CB, as there are already 3 CBs and 5 CBs would make football absurd. Sometimes try to miss pass the ball, and then regain the possession for a quick counter-attack. Try to attack through the wings through balls are effective too. Never ever make a player get out of his zone. Try zonal-marking. Switch your players and try containing the opposition to the flanks and regain possession. If necessary, call your nearby player to support in pressing too, but NEVER call the CBs. If you want to try E. Reja as your next manager in PES 2021, try to follow our guide, we have been practising playing like this under Reja and results have been guite fruitful in all of the Events, Campaign and Online matches.
